Turning lost revenue into found opportunity, resources and efficiencies

Introduction

Covington County Hospital came to TruBridge with the primary goal of getting back lost revenue. As this case study will reveal, our partnership accomplished that and so much more.

Within the first few months of implementing the TruBridge service, Covington County experienced:

- √ Fast, reliable billing and collections staffing
- √ Improved processes
- √ Reduced A/R days/increased cash collection

More importantly, Covington County Hospital was able to invest the time and money they saved into providing even better care to their patients.

The Solution:

Covington County Hospital utilized the TruBridge revenue cycle solution, ARMS (Accounts Receivable Management Service), to address the ever-present challenge most community hospitals face: accounts receivable management.

The right staff for the job

Greg Gibbes, Covington County Hospital CEO, said finding the best employees is critical for him and his team, which can be difficult in a smaller community. TruBridge's Accounts Receivable Management Service (ARMS) solution provided the staff necessary to bill and collect from patients and insurance companies without the turbulence of filling the positions locally.

"TruBridge Accounts Receivable Management Services provides us the best available staff," said Gibbes. "We're blessed to have a lot of great staff here at the hospital. But like any other facility, we do experience a high rate of turnover. It's difficult to maintain a consistent staff that's been through training and possesses the skills necessary to perform at a high level!"

Shorter revenue cycle, improved cash flow

Since Covington County has been utilizing the TruBridge ARMS solution they've seen improvements in several areas, including a more efficiently run business office, more accurate claims, a shorter collection cycle, and more streamlined processes.

"Consistent billing and collections have resulted in an increase in cash and decrease in AR days," said Saulters. "We also implemented interim billing for our swing-bed patients to improve cash flow and it's working out really well."
